Polyco® MATRIX

Thermit™

Simply provides insulation

Thermit™ from Polyco is a thermal knitted liner that can be used as a standalone product or as an insulating liner under other Polyco products. This close fitting glove provides excellent insulation and is ideal for use as a thermal underglove. Its seamless knitted construction feels soft against the skin and effectively eliminates moisture keeping the hands dry and comfortable. It can be worn on either hand thus removing the need for pairing, and when used as a primary product this ability greatly increases the lifespan of the glove, making it extremely economical. The Thermit™ is also available with a PVC dot coated palm for when extra grip is needed.
