Installation

WARNING! Computer equipment can be severely damaged by static electricity. Be sure that you are properly grounded before opening your computer case or touching your hard drive.

1. Connect the SATA Data/Power Combination Cable to the SATA drive power and data ports.
2. Make sure that your computer is turned off and that you are grounded. Remove the cover from your PC.
3. Secure the hard drive to the bracket using the provided screws. Insert the bracket into an open 3.5" drive bay and secure the bracket to your computer case.
4. Connect the remaining ends of the SATA Data/Power Combination cable to an LP4 power connector (provided by the computer power supply) as well as to an available SATA Data connector on the host computer motherboard.

FCC Compliance Statement

This equipment has been tested and found to comply with the limits for a Class B digital device, pursuant to part 15 of the FCC Rules. These limits are designed to provide reasonable protection against harmful interference in a residential installation. This equipment generates, uses and can radiate radio frequency energy and, if not installed and used in accordance with the instructions, may cause harmful interference to radio communications. However, there is no guarantee that interference will not occur in a particular installation. If this equipment does cause harmful interference to radio or television reception, which can be determined by turning the equipment off and on, the user is encouraged to try to correct the interference by one or more of the following measures:

- Reorient or relocate the receiving antenna.
- Increase the separation between the equipment and receiver.
- Connect the equipment into an outlet on a circuit different from that to which the receiver is connected.
- Consult the dealer or an experienced radio/TV technician for help.
